Wells Fargo Bank and the Detroit Regional Workforce Fund Support Leaps and Bounds Family Services

Warren, MI, March 1, 2019- Leaps and Bounds Family Services recently was awarded two grants in support of its child care provider training. Wells Fargo Bank gave the agency $50,000 and the Detroit Regional Workforce Fund granted $164,900 to the agency

Funding will provide the resources necessary for the agency to provide over 100 individuals with training and national certification through the Child Development Associate.

“These grants will help parents and caregiver provide the best in quality childcare care and early learning for young children,” said Denise Dorsz, Executive Director, Leaps and Bounds Family Services. “Our agency’s focus on education for parents and childcare providers through training, workshops and quality improvement support will help insure that children enter kindergarten ready, that parents are their child’s first teacher and that childcare providers provide high quality care. We are very grateful to the funders for their commitment to this important work”.

Leaps and Bounds Family Services was established in 1988 to creatively and collaboratively address the educational needs of children and families. The organization has offices in Detroit and Warren and serves over 5,000 individuals annually.
